Structure: Acts: The play is divided into 5 acts, this links to Gustav Freytag’s idea that there were five stages in a tragic dramatic structure- exposition, rising action, climax, falling action, resolution. Dramatic irony: When things are revealed to the audience before the characters, increasing tension Climax: The climax is the turning point of the story which decides the character’s fate. Comic Relief: humorous events or characters which provide a contrast to the serious elements of the play and lighten the mood Conflict: Every story has a conflict, a struggle between two opposing forces. This can be internal (the struggle which happens in the character’s mind) and/or external (between the main character and another character, with society, or a natural force)	Key themes: Ambition – It is his ambition which leads to Macbeth’s demise, so Shakespeare presents it as a negative quality. Guilt - the play shows the terrible consequences of murdering a king. Kingship vs tyranny – Duncan and Macbeth embody the qualities of a good king and a tyrant respectively. Order vs chaos Natural order is disrupted then re-established. Fate – Is Macbeth destined to fail? Masculinity/femininity – Are these gender roles switched with Lady Macbeth and Macbeth?	Social and Historical Context Macbeth was most likely written in 1606, early in the reign of James I, who had been James VI of Scotland before he succeeded to the English throne in 1603. Only a century earlier, England had suffered under the massive disorder of the Wars of the Roses. Civil disorder was now seen as the ultimate disaster, and also as an ungodly state. The play pays homage to the king’s Scottish lineage. Additionally, the witches’ prophecy that Banquo will found a line of kings is a clear nod to James’s family’s claim to have descended from the historical Banquo. The theme of bad versus good kingship, embodied by Macbeth and Duncan, respectively, would have resonated at the royal court, where James was busy developing his English version of the theory of the divine right of kings. The play was first performed not long after the Gunpowder Plot. Shakespeare shows the murderers of a king tormented by their own guilt and driven to their doom. It was believed that kings were appointed by ‘divine right’ and were anointed by God. To kill a king was considered the worst sin and a terrible crime. Macbeth is a tragedy and the character of Macbeth is a tragic hero
